

Hello, I'm Ed King.

I'm a graphic designer recently back from six months exploring South East Asia and I'm currently updating this PDF..

How embarrassing: So I've been very busy since returning to England, seeing friends and sorting out my web site, a place to live etc. I'm currently updating this PDF to include some newer work. It'll take around a week me thinks.

Ok. So, I'm more than familiar with all the usual software (Adobe CS, Ms office etc). My print skills are good and I love the feel, shine and smell of something fresh off the press. My web skills centre around front-end design but I can also write xHTML & CSS to a decent standard. That said I'm a designer, not a coder. I'm you want something build quickly and efficiently as possible, please hire a developer.

As a person I'm energetic, organised, creative, quick to learn, open to criticism, thick skinned and want to be the best I can be. I'm a sociable creature and enjoy working, talking and generally getting on with people.

Work-wise I'm looking at freelancing at least for while until maybe the right job comes up.

If you'd like to get in touch with me please give me a call and I'm happy to come along with a pile of work in digital format that we can over together.

My CV is to the right, and my full pdf will be uploaded by the 30th of August.

Until then.. Ta-tar
